

Developmental Painting Lab with Celeste McCollough
(Emphasis on Landscapes)

This is studio class. While students are invited to work on any representational subject matter (landscape, still life, portrait/figure), the class will have a particular emphasis on landscape painting. Students will provide their own reference material (i.e. photographs or 3-dimensional still life set-ups that can be re-established from one week to the next). During class, Celeste will work individually with each student on issues including drawing, value, color, and composition. She will also provide short demonstrations on particular concepts throughout the five classes. Celeste's primary expertise is in oil painting, so students are encouraged to work in oils. However, students who are experienced in working in acrylics and pastels are invited to participate in their medium of choice.

There will be two sessions:

Session 1: March 1, 8, 15, 22 and April 5 (skipping March 29)

Session 2: April 19, 26, May 3, 10 and 17.
